DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 3-5 and 12-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 3, (i) it is not clear what the "propylene random copolymer" is referred to, L1, L2, L3 or the propylene polymer particle; (ii) the term "skeletal constituent" is not an art recognized term and not defined in the specification. Clarification and appropriate correction are requested.

Allowable Subject Matter

3. The subject matter of the instant claims are deemed to be novel since the prior art does not teach three layered propylene polymer particles of the instant claims.

It is noted that the three layers of the propylene copolymer particles of instant claims comprising polyethylene as the outer layer L1, polypropylene as the middle layer L2 and the propylene homopolymer or copolymer as the core L3; however, in the working examples of the instant application, polyethylene is the core L3 and the propylene homopolymer or copolymer is outer layer L1. The claimed three layered polypropylene particles is not the same as the three layered polypropylene particles prepared in the working examples of the instant application.

Conclusion

In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
